Council President Georgette Gómez Reacts to Council Action on SDSU Mission Valley

SAN DIEGO – The San Diego City Council voted unanimously on Friday to approve, in concept, the agreement to sell 132 acres of land in Mission Valley to San Diego State University. A final agreement will be brought back for Council action in June. Council President Georgette Gómez reacted with the following statement:

“Today, the City Council took a historic step toward transforming part of Mission Valley and partnering with SDSU to expand the university’s educational footprint, add new student and faculty housing, and create a beautiful new River Park. I am ready to work hard to bring forward and take action on a finalized purchase and sale agreement on June 9, fulfilling the will of the voters, and realizing this generational opportunity to improve San Diego.”
